Answer :- Because the Best is the Cheapest, and the People Know It.

PRICE ONE CENT.

Great Progression.

Tails Disappeared.

Developement of Features.

What the late Charles Darwin offered mere-

GENEALOGY AT A GLANCE.

(Figs. 16, 17, 18.)

STRAIGHT HAIR AND SIGNS OF BEARD,

(Figs. 19, 20, 21.)

APPROACHING PERFECTION.

THE ADVANCE OF DARWINISM.

"Cuvier, who founded a system of comparative Zoölogy, could not divest himself of the conviction of the immutability of the different species of animals, and Louis Agassiz, educated in that school, could also not believe tute this afternoon.

JUSTICE DUFFY DETHRONED MAN FROM MONKEY

NO LONGER THE TAMMANY LEADER OF THE FIRST DISTRICT. Dr. Vander Weyde's Idea of the

His Resignation Is Accepted, and Congress man-Elect Frank T. Fitzgerald Taken the Helm-The Culmination of a Pro-As Brains Grew in Power the tracted Effort to Dethrone the Little

Justice Patrick Gavan Duffy, the "Little colomon" of the New York Police Courts, is no longer a political leader. Pictures Illustrating the Change and

He slipped down and out yesterday afternoon and Congressman-elect Frenk T. Fitzgerald succeeds to the Chairmanship of the Tammany Committee of the First Assembly A remarkably graphic lecture, bringing out ome new and interesting phases of the fam-

For many years Judge Duffy had led the ily relations of men and monkeys, is the at-Tummany hosts of the First District against etion on the card of the Academy of against the Murphy Legion, and had proven inthroplogy at Hall 22 of the Cooper Instinimself a worthy captain.

He has had to fight for the maintenance of ly as an ingenious and plausible theory, that the origin and rise of the thinking, speaking his position at the head of the organihis position at the head of the organization for the past two or three years, however, as there did not lack men of vaulting ambition in the First District who would leap into the leader's place, and who have tried unsuccessfully to relegate the Little Judge to the ranks.

These attempts have been made at the annual reconstruction of the General Committee after election.

This year the attack on Judge Duffy was renewed with increased vigor, and the prospect for a lively fight was brilliant, Duffy's triends being as determined to maintain him in his position as his opponents were to unseat him. human race was from the monkey and thence human race was from the monkey and thence from one common head, Dr. P. H. Vander Weyde, of Brooklyn, who is the lecturer, defends as a fact capable of demonstration. Prof. Darwin's theory had a missing link. Hasekel provided the link, to his own satis-faction at least, by his sunken continent where now washes the Indian Ocean. Here position as his opponents were to unseat him.

Wise counsels prevailed, however, and the struggle was averted.

Judge Duffy yesterday agreed to become a simple worker in the vineyard if the Committee would agree to elect Congressman-elect Fitzgerald to succeed him.

The little Judge said with reference to his resignation as a leader:

"To tell you the truth, I was not too anxious to continue the leadership. The leaders and candidates must, however, acknowledge that the First District did splendid service for Tammany Hall at the recent election."

THE SPLIT IN THE G. A. R.

Rapid Progress Said to Be Making by the

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

Indianapolis, Dec. 3.—Adjt.-Gen. Koontz, who is the recognized leader of the disaffected dement of the Grand Army of the Republic in his State, reports to-day that there is a studied effort on the part of the opposition to belittle his movement, but that it is making rapid progress. At a meeting to be held in this city on Wednesday night definite steps will be taken looking to a permanent organization. To-day he received an application from Elkhart for a charter for a corps with eighty-five members, and he also is constantly getting letters from members of the G. A. H. approving his course, but advising him to publish no names until after the organization shall have been perfected. Gen. Koontz also reports that a large number have already withdrawn from the G. A. R. On the other hand, the Adjutant-General of the department reports that at noon to-day he had received but two applications for withdrawal for political reasons. The applicants were F. L. Putt, of Middleburg, and Daniel L. Peck, of Medora. This official also said he had scores of letters from every quarter of the State showing a growth in the order since the election.

the election.

CINCINIATI, Dec. 3.—A number of disaffected veteran soldiers met yesterday in this city to take steps towards orgaffization in the new movement. Capt. Jack Seivers and John Moser are leading the movement. About fifty members were present. John Moser declares that the G. A. R. has been playing into the hands of the Republican party in this city for several years past. He thinks there is no doubt of the success of the new movement, as the Democratic soldiers are ready for it. Another meeting will be held next Sunday, when a more thorough organization will be effected. will be effected.

DID WILL HEARST MARRY?

Rumor that the Senator's Young Son Went to Europe With a Bride.

A story reached here from Boston to the effect that Will R. Hearst, son of United States Senator Hearst, of California, and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, was married in Boston recently and went to Europe with his bride. The lady, it is said, was an with his bride. The lady, it is said, was an old acquaintance of young Hearst, whom he first met while at Harvard.

Friends of young Hearst in Boston says he was very intimate with a young woman while at college, who did not belong to the upper ten, and many of them have a suspicion that it was she he married, and thus account for the fact that the affair was kept secret.

While in New York Hearst stopped at the Hoffman House. He left there Nov. 23, and, it is said, ordered his baggage to be taken to the French line pier. The following day La Bourgogne sailed, but the name of W. R. Hearst could not be found on her registry list; neither was it on that of La Champagne, which left several days prior to La Bourgogne.

ON A SPREE SINCE ELECTION.

Butcher McCue Finds Himself Hunted by

Paradise was located and here the first speaking animals lived and were drowned in the flood mentioned in the Bible.

Dr. Vander Weyde illustrates his lecture with drawings in black and white after Haeckel, the twelve races of man and twelve races of apas of Haeckel being the subjects.

'Man.' said the lecturer, "is naturally conservative, which means that his tendency is to adhere to the opinions he has once adopted, while the amount of his conservatism bears a diract ratio to the amount of his ignorance. The more he knows the less sure he is that what he knows is the truth. No sentence ever made a deeper impression on me than that of the great French philosoper, Descartes—'to arrive at the truth we must begin by doubting everything.' "A man is following me and will murder me," said a young and well-dressed man who rushed into Bellevue Hospital at about 12.20

"The man has three dogs-two small ones and a large one—and carries a shot-gun at his side," added the man. He could not be inside," added the man. He could not be induced to sit down, and every time the doors were opened he sprang to his feet, and it took three men to hold him. He was led to the balcoholic cells.

The man was Joseph McCue, a meat carver, twenty-eight years of age, who lives at 101 East Broadway. His talk shows that he is well acquainted with ex-Alderman Thomas Shells and other Seventh Ward politicians. He said he had been drinking all he could get since Election Day.

JUST LIKE OUR JOHNNY'S CASE.

The Disciplining of John Y. McKane by the John Y. McKane, the Boss of Coney Island, is undergoing an experience something like our own John J. O'Brien. He rebelled against Boss McLaughlin, of educated in that school, could also not believe otherwise. Some twenty-five years ago I heard him, when giving a series of lectures in this same Cooper Institute, holdly attacking the theory of evolution, by which he include that the theory was impious. But Agassix spoiled it again with them by asserting that the different human races could not possibly have descended from a single pair, but that each of them, the pegroes, the Mongolians, the New Zealanders, the Caucacians, &c., each had their own, distinct, original Adam and Fve, which would be a very logical conclusion if the immutability of each race was a sure fact. Darwin and his followers, the evolutionists of the present day, have thrown serious He rebelled against Boss McLaughlin, of the Kings County Democratic Organization, last year, was disciplined and his rotton borough of Gravesend was reorganized.

The reorganization did as much good as did that of O'Brien's Eighth District, of this city by the Republicans. McKane still controlled it and the whole town followed him in his fight against the Democratic National ticket.

The Kings County Democratic Committee on Discipline was last evening given the case of the Gravesend rebellion to consider.

COOLLY ADMITS THE FRAUDS.

Pennsylvania Republican Who Would Break the Solld South by Cheating. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 4 .- The leading Democrats here practically concede now that the ecount will show an apparent plurality for Goff for Governor. They have fully decided to con-test the election before the Legislature, however, and the work of collecting evidence to this end has been started in two-thirds of the counties of the State, where frauds are alleged to have been committed. Under the law Judge Fleming, the Democratic candidate, has sixty Fleming, the Democratic candidate, has sixty days to file his motion of contest—that is, until Jan. 6. When the notice is served it is necessary to state each vote thought to be illega, and by whom cast. It is extremely difficult to do this, but the West Virginia Democrate are so thoroughly aroused by the stigma cast upon the fair name of the State by the fraudulent methods of the Republicans that they are determined to overcome all obstacles. There can be no doubt, they say, that the evidence they will submit to the Legislature in January will be sufficient to convince all fair-minded people that Gen. Goff did not receive a majority of legal votes in this State for Governor, and that his apparent majority was secured by the most unblushing frauds. Ex-Congressman S. H. Miller is a Republican.

"I have no doubt," he said, "from what I have seen and heard, that the Republicans committed frauds all over this State. I am glad of it. The Democrate have been counting us out all over the South for many years, and it is only right that the Republicans should begin to even things up a little. If I lived in the South I should advocate ballot-box suffing by the Republicans as the only method of bringing the Democrats to their senses. The Republicans of East Tennessee, for instance, should see to it that their ballot-boxes were stuffed so full of Republican votes that it would be impossible for Democrats in Vest Tennessee, to evercome them. That is my idea of how the solid South should be broken."

It may be just as well for Miller that he does not reside in the South; but it would be interest-ing to know how far his views are sustained by his party.

DID THE HANGMAN'S WORK HIMSELF. The Slayer of Pretty Ida Wittenberger Commits Suicide in Jail.

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

Wabash, Ind., Dec. 4.—Ed Chamberlain, the slayer of Ida Wittenberger, executed justice on himself yesterday by hanging himself in the county jail at Logansport. He made a rope out of the sheets from his bunk and threw it over the bar on the top of the grated doorway. He then stretched himself up to his full height and tied the noose. As his feet still touched the floor, he bent his knees and held them in this position until he was strangled. The prisoner n cells adjoining Chamberlain's state that he had made several ineffectual efforts to kill him-self by opening an artery, but he was watched very closely and all his designs were frus-very closely and all his designs were frustrated.

Chamberlain's trial had been in progress for the past few days. The arguments were made on Saturday and the case was about ready for the inry. Chamberlain was keenly sensible of the fact that a very strong case had been made by the prosecution, and felt that his chances of escaping the gallows were exceedingly slim. It is now understood that the jury had intended uniting on a life sentence.

Chamberlain's crime awakened great feeling. Pretty Ida Wittenberger was one of the belles of White County and he was her admirer, but his affection was not reciprocated. He claimed that Ida had promised to marry him, but had proved fickle and accepted the attentions of another suitor. On the night of the murder the young lady attended church in company with the favored one, who, after leaving her at the gate on their return, heard a pistel shot, followed by the screams of the girl. She had been attacked by Chamberlain, who had been hiding near the door, but resisted him until he placed the muzzle of a revolver in her mouth and fired. Chamberlain narrowly escaped lynching and troops were called out to protect the jail until he was taken to the penitentiary for safekeeping.

A large number of milk dealers faced Justices Smith, Kilbreth and Power in the Court of Special Sessions yesterday. They were charged with having had adulterated milk in their possession and selling it. Charles W. Purdy, of No. 2396 First avenue, was convicted on two charges and was fined $100. The others were fined $25 each. They were Gerhardt Fuese, of No. 1017 Washington avenue; Henry Kraust, of No. 5 Manhattan avenue; William H. Stahl, of No. 3495 Third avenue; L. Kersheldorf. Henry Hocksteter, of No. 3535 Third avenue; George White, of No. 411 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street; Henry Broe, of No. 125 East One Hundred and Tenth street; John Dibbin, of No. 232 East One Hundred and Tenth street; Frederick Kahut, of No. 217 East One Hundred and Tenth street; Frederick Kahut, of No. 217 East One Hundred and Tenth street; Henry Bishoshanger, of No. 235 East One Hundred and Tenth street; Henry Bishoshanger, of No. 235 East One Hundred and Fifteenth street, and Matthew Schuyler, of Fordham.

To Capture " Red " Harris.

The notorious William, alias "Red" Harris, who has spent half of his thirty years at Auburn and Sing Sing, returned Saturday from a term at and Sing Sing, returned Saturday from a term at the latter place and speedily got into trouble.
Yesterday he was captured after a lively chase by the police over the roofs on West Fifty-third street. He was wanted for assault and battery on Mary Baker, who once was Harris's wife, but who informally resigned that position while Harris was in prison.
He was captured after his previous crime only at the end of a long chase, in which he led the officers in a builder's wagon which he had appropriated, occasionally turning in his seat to reply with his pistol to the thirty-eight shots they sent after him.

The Sons of the Revolution

Over two hundred members of the Sons of the Revolution assembled at Delmonico's last night to celebrate the one hundred and fifth anniver sary of the parting of Gen. Washington from his generals. The event which was commemorated took place at the old Frannee's Tavern, at the corner of Poarl and Broad streets in this city. The following officers were elected: President, Frederick S. Tallmadge; Vice-President, Floyd Clarkson; Secretary, James Mortimer Mont-gomery; Treasurer, Arthur Melvin Hatch; Reg-istrar, Ass Coolidge Warren; Historian, Austin Huntington.

FLASHES OF FUN.

Pittsburg Chronicle: Flighty people are sel dom blessed with 'pinions of their own. -Boston Courter: Talk is cheap, but not the ffectionate talk of a pretty girl; that is dear. New Orleans Picayune: A man with a mind shattered seems most anxious to give a piece of it to friends. Albany Argus: The Keely Motor Company is be reorganized by a completely new set of ames, for the Motor. Merchant Traveller: A man who has one jug of corn whiskey and another of rye refers to them as his grain elevators. Philadelphia Ledger: For a tank that is a tank, inseparable from a realistic mellow drammer, some manager should work in a real tramp.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Sitting Bull has acquired a passion for riding on railroads. This noble red man, however, does much better as a scalper.

Boston Gazette: Why do veally young men occupy the front row of the parquet at the per-formance of a burlesque? On the principle of mutual attraction—there are always calves in the ballet, don't you see?

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1888.

2 O'CLOCK.

DALY'S CLOSE CALL

Mystery Surrounds the Shooting of the Big Gambler.

A Queer Adventure in a Fourth Avenue Flat.

The Woman Called Him Darling After He Was Shot.

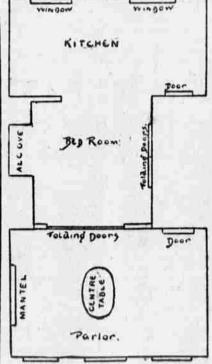

Unexplained Wounds on Annie Stanton's Hands.

The circumstances surrounding the at tempted shooting of Gambler Phil Daly in the house No. 406 Fourth avenue grow ore complex every moment.

It seems to be a mysterious case, and the graphic way in which Mr. Daly describes the shooting is worthy of Gaboriau. The police are as dumb as cysters and claim to have no new facts in the case whatever, and all persons are denied admittance to the prisoners

Mr. Daly says that he does not know either of the prisoners, and gives as his ex-planation of the fact that he went to the house that he received a note telling him that friends from Philadelphia wanted to see wrote the note, and had just seated himself on the lounge, when two masked men, one of whom he describes as being small and

WINDOW WINDOW WINDOW

ADDIE STANTON'S FLAT.

ADDIE STANTON'S FLAT.

the other as tall, rushed in and in true standup-and-deliver tones demanded that he
"throw up his hands."

A cocked revolver was in the hands of the small man. Notwithstanding this, Mr. Daly says he dashed for the smaller man, who instantly fired the revolver, the bullet therefrom inflicting a scalp wound about three inches long on the side of Mr. Daly's head.

Mr. Daly had on him at the time $3,000 in money, $30,000 in bonds and a massive gold watch and chain. His celebrated diamond also flashed briliantly from his shirt front.

The men decamped and Mr. Daly walked out, and upon reaching the street entered the drug store on the corner of Twenty-eighth street and Fourth avenue.

A passer-by asked if a policeman was needed and the wounded man replied in the affirmative. Policeman Henze arrived. Daly said to him:

"I was shot on the second floor of No. 406, next door, by two men. Arrest everybody in the house at once,"

The policeman rushed upstairs to the rooms designated, but found only the two women, Addie Stanton and Elia Hammond.
They were arrested and taken before Daly in the drug store. Then Henze, with Daly at his side, proceeded to the Thirtiesh Street Station, where a formal complaint, relating the above facts, was made.

The women were held as accomplices.
Addie Stanton gave her age as twenty-five years and birthplace in England. Ella Ham mond said she was thirty years old and born in Canada. Both gave their rasidences as
No. 406 Fourth avenue.

SAYS SHE KNOWS DALY.

At the station-house the Stanton woman said she was married, but separated from her husband.

She positively asserts that she knows Daly and that he came to see her of his own free woman was seemingly indifferent to her position.

The latter is a brunette, with hard-looking features. A pair of brilliant black eyes were the only striking thing in her face. She was loosely dressed in a gaudy crimson wrapper, over which she wore a fur dolman. Miss Stanton was plainly dressed in a slate-colored skirt, black jersey and sacque.

Quite an audience of curious people looked on. When Justice Gorman arrived, Detective Hayes simply leaned over the desk, whispered that Mr. Daly was unable to appear and asked that the prisoners be remanded until to-morrow morning.

asked that the prisoners be remanded until to-morrow morning.

After charging the woman in the usual manner the Judge remanded them to the custody of the detectives.

The latter with the prisoners boarded a Seventh avenue car. So did an Evening World reporter, and in conversation with the detectives he learned that the woman Stanton had been arrested about a year ago for keeping a disreputable house.

Beyond this the police professed ignorance as to the woman's past career. They told the reporter that permission would have to be got from Police Headquarters before any one would be allowed to interview the women. And they added that that was an impossibility.

BOW DID SHE CUT HER HANDS?

HOW DID SHE CUT HEB HANDS? While on the car the reporter noticed that the Stanton woman's hands were covered with court plaster. As to how she received the cuts or scratches which the plaster covered, the detectives were silent and would not permit any questions to be asked of her.

Capt. Reilly also has letters and pictures belonging to Addie Stanton which he religiously keeps from the eyes of reporters.

WHERE THE SHOOTING TOOK PLACE.

WHERE THE SHOOTING TOOK PLACE.

The house 406 Fourth avenue is an ordinary-looking four-story brick single flat.

When an Evening World reporter went there this morning he found all the tenants in the house discussing the affair.

They were of the opinion that Mr. Daly had been struck with a club and not shot. This seemed plausible at first, because the police had visited the house last night and searched diligently for the bullet and its billet, but could find no trace of either.

Again no one in the house had heard the Again no one in the house had heard the

Mrs. White, who lives on the top floor, said:
"Of course I never made any freedom with

"Of course I never made any freedom with the people. Men were in and out of their apartments all the time, but they were always quiet, and interfered with no one."
"Did you hear a pistol-shot yesterday?"
she was asked.
"I did not. The first I heard of the trouble was the sound of the doors downstairs being violently shaken. I rushed out to the head of the stairs and looking down saw a portly man hurrying down the stairs. He was dripping blood. A moment later Miss Stanton rushed out of the front room and followed him downstairs. She wiped the blood from the banisters as she went along.

went along.
"I ran into my front room, where Mrs.
Nelson, who boards with me, had preceded me. We both looked out of the window.

The property of the property Neison, who boards with me, had preceded me. We both looked out of the window.

"Mr. Daly was leaning against the front door. We could hear him groan. He had one white hand on his head and blood was welling up between the fingers. His handsome gray hair was rumpled and matted with blood.

"Miss Stanton did not follow him into the street. I think that Miss Stanton struck him with a bottle or a club. There was no him with a bottle or a club. There was no sign of any other men about.

'If any of them had run out we would have seen or heard something of them.

SEARCHING FOR THE BULLET. "Capt. Reilly and several of his men searched for the bullet or some trace of it, but could not find it in the room," she con-out could not find it in the room," she concluded.

Mrs. Nelson, a preity young married woman who lives with Mrs. White, corroborated all that lady had said, and coincided with her opinion and gave some additional information.

"I was coming in from the store," she said, "when I saw Mr. Daly coming upstairs before me, He did not ring, because the hall door was open. He walked upstairs slowly and knocked at the front hall door, which leads into the parlor."

"Did he seem familiar with the surroundings?" ings?

SEEN THERE BEFORE.

"Entirely so. I think I have seen him here before, too. However, as soon as he knocked the door was opened by Miss Stanton, who sang out cheerily:

"Hello. I've been expecting you. Come in. I'm glad to see you.' I heard him say something and laugh as he stepped into the room. The next I saw of him was looking from my front window. He wore a silk hat and heavy, rich overcoat going in, but he had neither going out," she concluded. DIDN'T HEAR ANY SHOT.

Janitor David Watson did not believe that Daly had been shot. He was of the opinion that he had been hit with a club or a bottle by some man.

"I went out about 2.20 o'clock yesterday afternoon," he said," and saw the front door on the second floor open partially. I looked in, and saw a young man and at least one "Who were they?"

"I could not may positively."
"Was it Mr. Daly and Miss Stanton?"
"It might have been Miss Stanton, but it was not Mr. Daly."
"Do you know him?"
"Yes. He has been a frequent visitor.

"Yes. He has been a frequent visitor since Miss Stanton came here, three or four weeks ago. I guess he bought the furniture. The man that I saw in the room was younger and slimmer; that is all I could say about Was it Mr. Hammond?"

"It might have been, but I don't know. I only took a hasty glance and went on my way. I was not out twenty minutes, but when I returned the tragedy had been exacted." enacted."
"Will you show me the rooms?" asked the reporter. "Certainly," he replied, and led the way

"Certainly," he replied, and led the way down to the rooms on the second floor.

When he opened the door he was joyfully greeted by Miss Stanton's Scotch terrier, which was left alone last night when her mistress and triend were locked up.

The rooms did not smell nice. There was a worn-out scent of musk and patchouli that seemed strangely at variance with the disordered appearance of the room.

The kitchen table was laid as if for dinner, but odd dishes were scattered here and there. A bottle half filled with beer, a glass half full of the sums liquid and two or three smpty bottles littered the table also. "he ted in the middle of the room was will. She had only been lodging at Ella Hammond's for two weeks past.

She positively denied any knowledge of the shooting, as did Ella Hammond.

Both prisoners were taken to the Jefferson Market Pohce Court this morning by Detectives Hayes and Brett, of the Nineteenth Precinct.

While waiting for Judge Gorman to appear The Evening World reporter took a mental pleture of the two women.

Addie Stanton is a medium-sized, slimbuilt blonde. She had no doubt been a handsome woman when younger, but her face now, although still good-looking, bears marks of dissipation. Her yellow hair was banged over a very fine pair of blue eyes, to which she frequently applied a handkerchief. Her nose is slightly retrousse, and her mouth is a Cupid'wbow.

She wept copiously, while the Hammond woman was seemingly indifferent to her position.

The latter is a brunette, with hard-looking features. A pair of brilliant black eyes were the only striking thing in her face. She was loosely dressed in a gaudy crimson wrapper, over which she wore a fur dolman, Miss Stanton was plainly dressed in a slate-colored akirt, black jersey and sacque.

Quite an audience of curious people looked on. When Justice Gorman arrived, Detective Hayes simply leaned over the desk, whispered that Mr. Daly was unable to appear and asked that the prisoners be remanded until to-morrow morning.

After charging the woman in the usual disturbed. Solided towels were scattered in every direction, and a China bow half full of water stood on a stand. The front not looked a little better. There was an appearance of neatness there not not incicable class Mr. Daly was unable to appear and asked that the prisoners be remanded until to-morrow morning.

After classing the woman in the usual disturbed. Solided don a stand.

A REPORTER FINDS THE BULLET.

While they examined it THE EVENING WORLD reporter continued his search for the bullet, and found it at the foot of the bed. Then Detective Britt resumed the search to find where it had struck after glancing off the old gambler's head.

After another minute examination it was the reporter's eye that detected the spot. It was in the corner of the old gold frame of the pastoral scene, in the corner over the lounge.

That settled it, and it was shown clearly that Mr. Daly had been shot while standing at the centre-table and facing the folding doors through which the men had to enter. The bullet was a 32-calibre one.

The detectives took it with them to use as evidence, and left strict orders with the jamitor not to admit any other reporters, or any one in fact, unless a poiceman. Big Tom Hayes found a picture of Hammond in his wife's trunk. It is that of a well-dressed man, about 5 feet 10 or 11.

of Hammond in his wife's trunk. It is that of a well-dressed man, about 5 feet 10 or 11.
weight about one bundred and seventy-five pounds, with dark eyes, features, and big black mustache.

The man who is supposed to have been with him, who did the shooting, is shorter and far. He is a gambler called Johnnie, an old friend of Miss Stanton's, and the police hope to have them both in custody to-day. WHAT THE DOCTOR SAYS.

Dr. Husson, of 31 West Twenty-eighth street, who was called into Fingerhut's drug store to dress Mr. Daly's head, said to-day:
"I am satisfied that the parties were acquainted before yesterday.
"While I was dressing Mr. Daly's head in the drug store the Stanton woman was brought in. She was very theatrical.

SHE CALLED PHIL "DARLING."

"'Oh, darling, darling, don't have me locked up. Den't send me to prison.'
"My patient looked at her cynically for a second, and then replied sarcastically:
"H—, no. I'd ought to take you to a hotel."

"'H—, no. I'd ought to take you to a hotel."

'Then, as an afterthought, he said, hearse with passion, 'Ult tell you what I will do, I'll spend $5,000 to clear you if you tell me the names of the men.'

''I can't. I can't,' she sobbed.

''Then, by God, I'll spend $5,000 to send you and them to jail,' he ended."

LEFT HIS HAT AND COAT BEHIND Mr. Daly's hat and coat was brought to him in the drug store. He said last night he carried them out himself.

carried them out himself.

Dr. Husson says the wound is not serious unless crysipelas should set in.

The bullet struck just above the right eye, cutting a gash about an inch deep, and then ploughed a furrow up the cranium about half an inch deep and three inches long to the top of the head, whence it glanced off.

"Close shaye?" asked the reporter.

"The thickness of a hair saved his life," said the doctor.

said the doctor. LOTS OF LETTERS IN HER TRUNK. Miss Stanton's trunk was brought to the station-house and was found to be filled with station-house and was found to be filled with fine wearing apparel.

Several boxes were also brought and their contents were peculiar in their nature. Bundles of letters were piled in helter skelter. They all seemed to be alike and were answers to advertisements.

It seemed that Miss Stanton had been doing some queer work, mainly by the insertion of personal advertisements in which a "forlorn maiden" plaintively asks some "kind gentleman" to relieve her of a "temporary embarrassment."

There were hundreds of auswers to such advertisements. A bundle of cards was also advertisements. A bundle of cards was also found, inscribed as follows: BANKER'S DAUGHTER CO. LILLIAN.

She also had a list of names and a directory and envelopes with the names of well-known men about town written on them.

The name of the sender was on each envelope. One bore the words, "told to call at 5 r. m. Saturday," and just underneath was written "He didn't come."

GETTING READY FOR DUDLEY.

Perhaps an Indictment May be Had Against Him This Week. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD. ] Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 3.—To-morrow, after month's respite for the accumulation of evience, the Federal Grand Jury will continue ithearing of the election frauds cases, in which the United States Prosecuting Attorney hopes to secure in the neighborhood of a hundred indictments. The cases have been carefully culled and gone through with. The list as it now stands includes almost every species of violation of the election regulations of the State. The Assistant District-Attorney, Leon O. Bailey, said to-day that there is an enormous amount of evidence got together, witnesses having been brought from almost every county in the State. The from almost every county in the State. The Dudley matter will, it is thought, be reached before the close of the week. There is, it is rumored, some veryimportant evidence in the case which the prosecuors are to have submitted to them within a day or two.

"The Dudley case," said a politician here today, "will make more music in Indianapolis, if it somes to trial, than anything that has happened here for a long time. Air. Dudley knows a great many things, and has intimated that if he were forced to the wall he would tell them. There is a committee of 100 here, organized on a non-partisan basis, for the purpose of preventing abuses in the elections, and if an indictinent is secured against Mr. Dudley and the case comes to trial, I prophesy that the committee will want to take a long vacation. There is a general belief that the party leaders—that is to say, principally Chairman Huston and some of his friends—wouldn't be a bit averse to seeing Dudley sacrificed, but if they all do let him go their ears are apt to burn before they are through with the business."

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
PITTERURO, Dec. 4.—A Pittsburg firm has purchased 45,000 kegs of nails with the intention of Corpling a corner in nails.

Mrs. Marie Blaine's Choice for Her Future Life.

She Seeks Not Notoriety but to Support Her Child.

The Advice of Friends Agrees with Her Own Inclinations.

What has been hinted at for many weeks by those directly interested in the welfare of Mrs. James G. Blaine has at last a definite shape and assumed is now authoritatively stated by that lady herself that the stage will be the scene of her future career.

Nor is this to be considered as a sudder step taken with the idea that with the

MRS. JAMES G. BLAINE, JR. otoriety which her post troubles have given. her future is already an assured success, even though she may possess no talent. It is the determination of a spirited little woman to use the talent which she believes serself to possess, strengthened by the advice of many friends who are interested in her Neither is it a spirit of bravado which prompls this action, but a matter of sheet necessity, and the only method wnich pre-necessity, and the only method which presented itself as a means of procuring a live-lihood for herself and infant.

"Yes, it is true; I am actually going on the stage," was the young wife's cheary response to the question of an Evenina Worse reporter, as she invited him into the cosy reception room in her apartments at the New Yoak Hotel.

"There were two paths open to me, journalism or the stage, and I chose the latter.

"It is, not alone my choice, but according to the advice of all my friends—that is, with few exceptions, one of whom wrote me a few days ago to ask if it were trae, and loudly declaiming against any such publicity. To that kind of letters I have but one reply—'Will you support me and my baby?'

"No, the time of my appearance is not definitely settled, nor can I state under whose management I will make my debut, because I don't know yet. I have received several offers, but have not as yet decided with whom I will go.

"Of course, I will have to study first, never having appeared upon the state.

never having appeared upon the sine either as amateur or professional, although some newspapers insist that I have. But this you can say authoritatively, that with the exception of authoritatively, that with the exception of one occasion when I sang in an amateur opera, I have never been before the foot.

"Will you make your debut in opera?"
asked the reporter.
"No, I am not strong enough for that yet; but just what line I will select for my appearance must depend entirely upon what is in me, which, or course, will develop under study."

study."
"From whom do you intend taking les-"From whom do you intend taking lessons?"

"Mr. David Belasco, of the Lyceum Theatre, will be my instructor, and I have already enrolled myself as his pupil. I have formed no ideas of going abroad to finish my studies, nor shall I go to the other side for any costumes, as I believe there are good enough dressmakers right in New York; protection to home industries," and the young wife laughed heartily at the appropriate eampaign cry.

Again, as the thought of her past troubles came before her, the merry smile gave place to a saddened look as she said:

"During my convalescence I weighed the matter tooroughly and felt that with returning health and strength I must do something to provide for myself in the future, and the decision to go upon the stage is the result of long and deliberate theorem.

ing health and sirength I must do something to provide for myself in the future, and the decision to go upon the stage is the result of long and deliberate thought.

"Had I chosen the journalistic field, I would have felt more as if I were going among friends, as the press has ever been kind to me, and upheld me entirely throughout my trouble, but I felt that I was more litted for the stage."

As regards her litigation Mrs. Blaine would say nothing, although volunteering the statement that she had by no means dropped it.

FLAGMAN WOLVER'S HEROIC DEED. His Own Life Lost in Saving Two Girls

From Death at Herkimer. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] HERKIMER, N. Y., Deer 4. -As the fast mail train on the New York Central Railroad came thundering along towards the crossing here this morning Flagman Wolver discovered two young girls on the track apparently unaware of great peril. Wolver shouted, the girls looked, and when Wolver shouted, the girls looked, and when they saw the engine was almost upon them became bewildered, shrieked, but were too frightened to move.

The engineer clew the whistle and reversed his machine, but the train was gaing at such a high rate of speed that it was impossible to stop before the crossing was reached.

All this took but a moment. Wolver sprang to the spot, fairly threw the girls from the track, but before he could escape was caught by the engine and instantly killed, his body being horribly mangled.

Two lives were saved, but brave Wolver had lost his own.

[SPECIAL 70 THE WORLD ]

LOUISVILLE, Dec. 4.—President Davidson and Attorney Phelps, of the American Baseball A sociation, left last night for the annual meeting in Baseball Association Gessip.

St. Louis to-morrow. Phelps says he be a candidate for President against He thinks the salary limit rule will be and that Columbus will be admitted to Cleveland. Four men there have an anya, to put up $0,000 as a guaranto.

